Carmel Valley Outlook

BEGUN IN 1928, the river run operation on the Carmel River at Robinson Canyon Road has been a continuous one. The wooden construction which houses the rock crusher has mellowed with age and is spotted with weeds and grasses in unlikely cracks.

Poetry Shell Contest continued

The deadline for submission of previously unpublished poems for the Poetry Shell's 1974 Spring Contest has been extended to April 14. Poems of not more than 25 lines (although additional lines will not disqualify distinctive work) should be sent with titles on 8½ by 11 inch typing paper, one poem per page, to Lois Wilson, Box 31, Pacific Grove, 93950 or to Jane Ramirez, P.O. Box 2162, Carmel 93921.

Tennis benefit

Childrens Home Society of the Monterey Peninsula, Punch and Judy Chapter, cordially invites you to attend their annual Womens Invitational Tennis Tournament, April 29, at the Carmel Valley Racquet Club. (Rain date May 6th.)

The cost is $16 for each team of two. This includes luncheon, tennis, fashion show, and raffle. Luncheon only is $3.

For further information and application, please contact Mrs. Bary Threadgill, 624-8728, or Mrs. Burl Gray, 624-3981 by April 15.

Sportsman's Association

The second meeting of the Carmel River Sportsman's Association will be held on Monday, April 8 at 7:30 p.m., at Northern California Savings & Loan, Dolores & 7th Avenue, Carmel.

Business of the meeting will include the adoption of the association's by-laws and election of officers for the first year.

This is your opportunity to join with others who feel something must be done to save the Carmel River for steelhead fishing and for the enjoyment of those who treasure our natural resouces.

April trout plants

Local waters will be stocked during this month with catchable trout, the Department of Fish and Game has announced. Planting crews will be supplying fish in Los Padres Reservoir, Arroyo Seco Creek Lower and Nacimiento River Lower.

Harlequin Domino Tournament

Invitations are in the mail for the first Harlequin Domino Tournament, an elegant fund raising activity, sponsored by the Children's Experimental Theater of the Monterey Peninsula, a non-profit organization which works with children for children. The event will take place at Rancho Canada on May 11, at 4 p.m.

Chairmen of the event, Mrs. Robert Gay and Mrs. John Roland, are anticipating a good turnout. There are exciting prizes, including weekends in Silverado and Coronado, a cocktail party for 25 for one hour at the La Playa, a choice of one of five paintings by well-known local artists, to say nothing of stupendous first-place trophies and the door prize.

For $25 admission, (tax deductible) each player gets the challenge of a good game with interesting people, the chance to win I.D.A. master points, wonderful prizes - plus a delicious roast beef dinner complete with wine. And, should a player want to bring a guest for dinner, the additional cost is only $7.50.

So, make it a gala Mother's Day weekend, either by playing or becoming one of the angles who are among the more beautiful people, and join us for cocktails and dinner. For information call 735-7167 or 372-2223.

CHS White Elephant Auction

The Carmel High School Associated Student Body is sponsoring a White Elephant Auction on Saturday, April 20, on the girls' playing field at the high school.

Your donations will be welcome. Please call Cathy Miller (659-4512); Mike Irwin (624-2140); or Enid Ross (624-0268) by April 12 for pickup, or leave your white elephants at the high school.

Suicide Prevention

The Monterey County Suicide Prevention Center needs additional volunteers for its staff. Classes will begin Monday, April 22 and will meet every Monday and Thursday from that date through May 27. All prospective volunteers will be interviewed in person before the training class commences.

The course consists of lectures, study discussion groups practice call sessions and a final exam and evaluation session. All volunteers are expected to devote four hours weekly to phone duty.

For further details, applicants may call 373-0713 or 373-6363.

Vietnam Veterans Week

The Monterey Peninsula College flag was lowered to half staff in special ceremonies last Friday in observance of Vietnam Veterans Day and the official beginning of Vietnam Veterans Week, March 29 through April 4.

The flag was raised to the top of the standard by MPC President George J. Faul and Brig, Gen. Edward M. Markham, deputy commanding general at Fort Ord, and then be lowered to half staff in honor of those veterans who died in Vietnam. Representatives of the American Legion and the MPC Vets Club also participated in the ceremony.

Vietnam Veterans Day also finds significance in that it is the first anniversary of the return of American Prisoners of War, according to George Newel, MPC veterans affairs officer. As Commander and Chief of the Armed Forces, President Nixon and the Congress declared Vietnam Veterans Day to "express the sincere gratitude of the nation to the men and women who answered our country's call to duty...in spite of the unpopularity and controversy generated by U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia."

The week's observance was brought to a close today with a veterans' picnic in the college amphitheatre. Newell said that the college has over 2,000 veterans enrolled in classes.

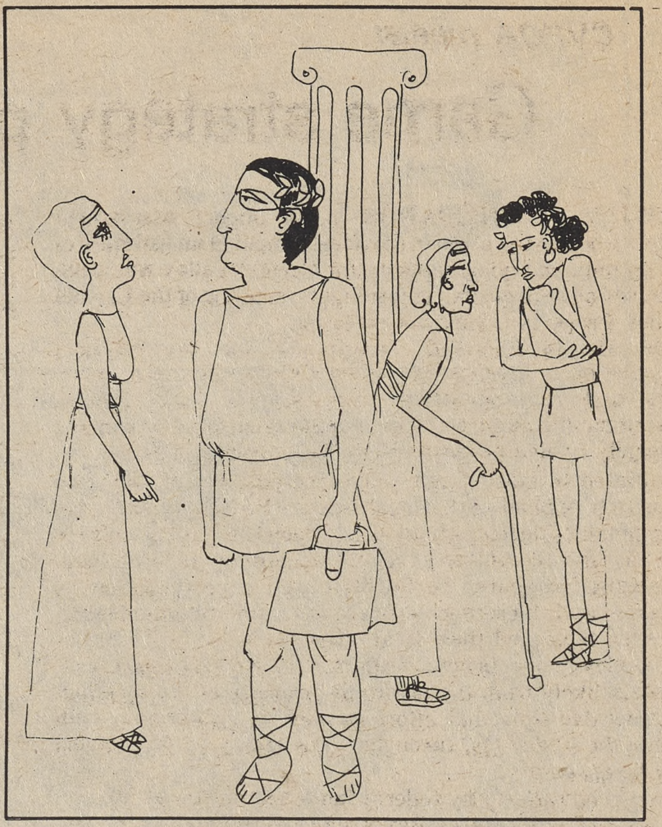
Nursery School Benefit

The parents' organization of Carmel Valley's newest cooperative nursery school will have a fund-raising garage sale April 20 and 21, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The event will be at the home of the Frank Tarantions, 7510 Fern Court, (left off of Meadows Road in Carmel Valley) and will offer general merchandise, baked goods and plants. Also featured will be a display of children's playhouses similar to the one which the parents' group placed on the school play yard in January.

The preschool, open to children ages three to kindergarten, is located at St. Philip's Lutheran Church and offers a daily session from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Two fathers are currently part of the director-parent team who work with the children, and attend a weekly evening class conducted by Director Marilyn McCurry. For information on enrollment in the Carmel Adult Education program, contact Mrs. McCurry at 624-1633.

First Aid Course

A standard American Red Cross First Aid course will be given by the Carmel Valley Fire Department at the sation located on Via Contenta. The course will begin on April 9 at 7:30 p.m. and will continue to be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 until all 20 hours of the course are completed.



"LET'S PLAY democracy." (See related story on page 3.)

Schedule of public meetings

Planning Commission: The County Planning Commission will meet on April 10 at 9 a.m. in the supervisors' chambers of the courthouse in Salinas. The agenda includes an environmental determination on a use permit application filed by the Carmel Association of Sportsmen for an indoor smallbore (rifle) range (9:30 a.m.) and a design approval for tennis court fences at the Carmel Valley Inn (no time scheduled).

Zoning Administrator: The County Zoning Administrator will hold a meeting on April 11 beginning at 1:30 p.m. in the supervisors' chambers of the courthouse in Salinas. Items to be considered include a public hearing at 2:10 p.m. on a use permit application by J.C. Chaplis for the operation of a laundermat in a building presently under construction on Carmel Valley Road. At 1:45 p.m. a use permit will be heard on an application by Carmel Properties Company for twin theatres adjoining the two theatres presently operated at Carmel Center off Rio Road and for a Wells Fargo Bank in Carmel Valley.

Board of Supervisors: The County Board of Supervisors will hold their regular Tuesday meeting on April 9 at 10 a.m. A hearing on the ordinance providing for the licensing of dogs and for animal and rabies control will begin at 11:45 a.m.

Coastal Commission: The Central Coast Regional Commission's Planning and Policy Committee will hold a public meeting on Monday,April 8 at 10 a.m. in the City Council Chambers of the Monterey City Hall. The purpose of this meeting is to invite public discussion of alternative planning concepts for the area from Salinas River to Malpaso Creek. Some of the issues to be discussed are: further first and second homes, commercial,or industrial development; additional recreational uses and facilities; the future of agricultural land and the need for transportation alternatives. Public response is needed to refine or elimate possible growth patterns.

All individuals, groups and agencies are invited to attend this work session. The commission regards this as a very sensitive area from an esthetic and environmental standpoint and wishes to involve residents and interested groups in its planning process to the greatest extent possible.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

What with all of the unfortunate things (i.e. the abomination at the mouth of the Valley, it is a pleasure to read of something outstanding taking place. I refer, of course, to the groundbreaking ceremony which R.S.V.P. at Rippling River will have on April 7, 1974, at 1:30 p.m.

Valley residents owe a great deal of thanks to the many people who have worked so hard and so long towards the realization of a facility such as this, but Mrs. Elaine Castro deserves, in my opinion, the bulk of the credit for the existence of R.S.V.P.

Mrs. Castro has said that this ususual residential complex, geared to the needs of adults who are physically impaired, will provide an opportunity for each of its residents to realize an individual life style based on personal choice of the various activities and services which R.S.V.P. will provide. This is indeed a breakthrough of major proportions in understanding the problems which are particular to those whose bodies somehow don't function properly. What a noble venture has come to our Valley!

I hope that other residents of Carmel Valley share my elation that such goodness of heart and spirit still exists, and that we have been fortunate enough to be chosen as the host site for this unique enterprise. Let us all attend this groundbreaking on Sunday, April 7, if only to say, "Good Luck and God Bless."

Notice to subscribers

Effective Monday, April 1, the subscription rate for the Carmel Valley Outlook will be changed from $5.50 to $6.00 per year. This is the first increase in subscription rates since May, 1971.

The 50 cent annual increase has become necessary to offset increases in postage and production costs. Rising costs of newsprint, supplies and ink are factors which determined the subscription rate increase.

Rates for out-of-state subscribers will be $9. The newstand price will remain 15 cents.

The policy of the Carmel Valley Outlook is to continue to strive for the very best possible newspaper at the lowest possible price to both readers and advertisers.

The bylined columns which appear in the Carmel Valley Outlook reflect the opinion of the writer, and do not represent the editorial position of this newspaper or the personal judgment of its staff.

The Outlook's columnists are chosen for their positions of leadership in the community and their knowledge of the subjects about which they write. They represent a variety of viewpoints.

CVPOA meets:

Game strategy proposed for carrying capacity study

CITIZEN PARTICIPATION in an impact assessment game to be used as a tool in the development of an estimate of the optimun carrying capacity for Carmel Valley was well-received as a suggestion at last night's meeting of the Carmel Valley Property Owners' Association.

Dr. Harold Chatland, investigator for the National Foundation of Science addressed CVPOA directors, members and representatives from several local groups, describing the game strategy and the procedure by which a federally funded program might be utilized in Carmel.

Initiated 16 months ago under the auspices of NSF, the Research Applied to National Needs (RANN) project was formulated to develop planning and decision-making tools for use at the community level, according to Chatland. Strategies aregeared to facilitate active participation by citizens and increased cooperation and communication between them and their local officials.

If Valley residents actually pursue the RANN project, as it appears likely from the favorable response at the meeting, considerable time and effort as well as cooperation both within the Valley and throughout the Monterey Bay region will be necessary.

Financed entirely by federal funds administered through Association of Monterey Bay Area Governments (AMBAG) as the local fiscal agent, the research project would involve the active participation of as many local citizens as are interested and available to meet as a group to assess consequences of various actions related to carrying capacity. Judgments would be based on information including that obtained from the Planning Department and from academic researchers, which would be provided by Chatland and his team of assistants.

Since the Monterey Bay region is somewhat homogeneous, an attempt to take into account the resources, needs and desires of nearby areas would be advisable, stated Chatland.

"It is possible" he warned, "for every community on the Peninsula in the next 10 years to make optimum decisions on each issue in each seperate community with a net result of chaos." The counties of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito are of particular interest to NSF for the project due to their overall similarity.

An expression of the full spectrum of visions and aspirations of Valley residents is crucial to the development and execution of the research project, Chatland stressed, since implicit in the concept of optimum holding capacity is a consideration of value judgements by individuals.

"In order to make the game work," CVPOA chairman Bill Brown stated, "we need representatives from all groups. Every organization on the Peninsula has to put something into this study for it to be worthwhile. Our organization just can't do it alone."

CVPOA Vice President Dolores Anderson acknowledged the heavy representation at the meeting of those with conservationist leanings. (Those in attendance included representatives of the Sierra Club, the Carmel Area Coalition, the Monterey Foundation for Conservation, the League of Women Voters and the Carmel Board of Realtors.) Mrs. Anderson invited all groups on the Peninsula interested in being represented in the game group to contact her or Chairman Bill Brown wo that necessary diversity may be achieved.

In structuring the game, Chatland explained, first an issue, such as the consideration of a dam, is identified and stated clearly. Then, using a game board of the cardboard "Monopoly" type, the players record all the elements, e.g., environment, resources, social institutions, amenities, which they believe will be affected by resolution of the issue in one way or another. Any category related to the key issue should be included, provided the components which define each category can be articulated.

The game is considered "loaded" when all categories and their operational definitions are listed and when all pertinent and detailed information from the Planning Department, academic researchers and other sources has been secured.

At this point, interested members of the community gather together in a hall and divide into odd-numbered groups, each composed of individuals with diverse interests.

During the first session, which usually lasts a few hours, each group discusses and reaches a determination on the impact of the resolution of the issue on each item listed.

THE FIRST MEETING is the simplest, claims Chatland, because a single item is the exclusive focus of attention. During the first meeting, however, recognition invariably is given to the fact that issues impact upon issues, and related items must be considered together.

Continuing the example of the dam as the originally identified issue, it becomes apparent that land use and development and highways, among other items,must be considered along with the damconstruction due to their inevitable interplay, Chatland explained.

After related issues are identified and broken down into operationally defined categories, a process which usually requires a few sessions lasting a few hours each, players determine the combined impact of the many related issues. The final stage may take quite some time, according to Dr. Chatland, due to the high level of complexity at this stage.

"If Valley residents do decide to take part in the study" the NFS agent cautioned, "you'll be (operating) in the guinea pig stage."

Although a few communities in the nation have attempted to use the impat assessment game strategy in determining optimum carrying capacity in relation to individual items, such as water or air pollution, no studies have yet been done which deal with an integrated set of interrelated issues affected by carrying capacity.

While considerable enthusiasm toward the local participation in the game project was demonstrated, concern over the ultimate utility of the research was voiced.

Questioned Mrs. George Nye, of Carmel Valley, if the courts continue to rule against the limitation of property development in communities which are attempting to restrict growth based on their determinations of area carrying capacity, what point is there in attempting to arrive at an accurate firgure?

"Do you know of another more effective way of achieving your goal?" queried Chatland.

In response to concern expressed over the low probability of witnessing implementation of policies developed during the study, the RANN investigator explained that by electing sympathetic local officials who would utilize the available tools of zoning, use permits and service connections, citizens could maximize chances that government would be based on policies they might develop using the gaming strategy.

During the game sessions, equal weighting would be given to opinions expressed by citizens and elected officials. "This is really quite a democratic process," explained Chatland. Up to 80 particaipants have participated in a single game group so far. The size of the hall appears to be the limiting factor."

Citizens would eventually play the game along with elected Monterey County officials, projected Chatland. "What your supervisors are affected by most," he stated, "are logical, irrefutable facts. I think once we have these, we can get them to play the game as well as to listen to your efforts in the game. The tremendous advantage will be that you will all be working on the basis of the same information."

It was through the efforts of County Supervisor Willard T. Branson that Chatland came before the group last night. The CVPOA had sent a letter recently to Branson requesting information on the current status of a study which was to be conducted by the Board of Supervisors on the carrying capacity of Carmel Valley.

Explaining to the CVPOA that the supervisors were themselves due to legal ramifications which might impinge upon citizens' rights guaranteed by the federal Consititution, Branson referred the matter back to the property owners' group as an appropriate vehicle.

Acting on agenda items, the CVPOA board unanimously adopted positions opposing two developments in Carmel Valley.

The directors voted to file an appeal of the use permit granted on March 28 by the zoning administrator for the 162-unit Meharry motel to be located at the mouth of the Valley,if the City of Carmel does not file an appeal as they have indicated they will. (At the hour the Outlook went to press there was no record of the filing of an appeal.)

The CVPOA's continued opposition to the project is based on water supply, traffic, and air pollution considerations, according to Vice President Dolores Anderson.

The directors of the association took a stand against to the possible granting of a use permit to J.C. Chaplis for the operation of a laundromat in the east corner of a building currently under construction on Carmel Valley Road adjacent to the Will's Fargo Restaurant. If the zoning administrator decides to issue the permit at the hearing scheduled for 2:10 p.m. on April 11 in the courthouse in Salinas, the CVPOA will appeal to the Board of Supervisors, it was determined.

Valley's ARC drive: still person-to-person

Because it was difficult to find willing workers, the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross conducted its membership and fund drive by mail this year. A notable exception occurred in the Carmel Valley area.

According to Kathryn Harriman, chapter chairman of volunteers, Mrs. Phillip (Kathryn) Walker, "a dedicated and intrepid worker,said she would take over as residential door-to-door chairman in the Valley. She certainly did. Mrs. Walker has done a wonderful job and managed to get at least 50 people to help her with this tremendous task. It isn't easy to get people willing to go from door to door, particularly over such a spread-out area. She worked like a beaver."

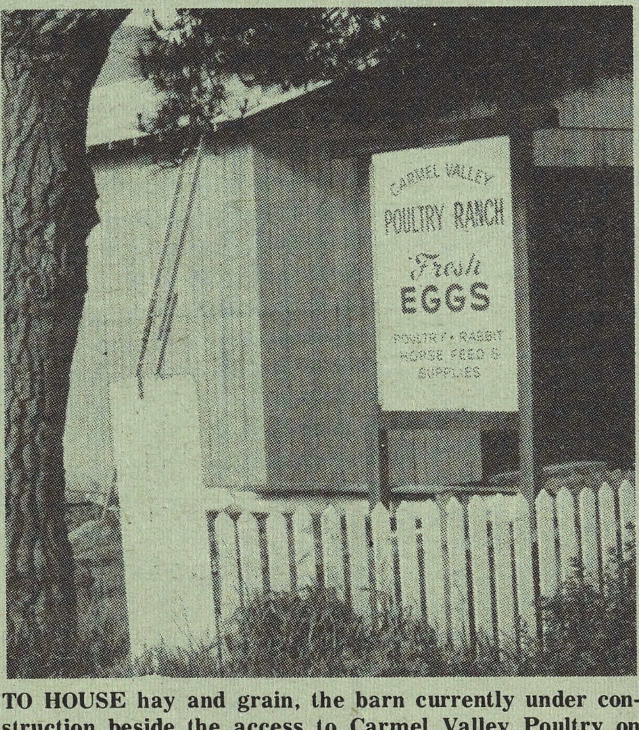
Mrs. Walker, widow of a Navy captain, has worked in many areas of the Red Cross for years and knows her subject. "I enjoyed the job and I am proud of the response here in the Valley. I am particularly grateful to those who gave of their time to help me -- all 50 of them!" applauded Mrs. Walker.

Although AmericanNational Red Cross Month ended last week, funds are still arriving at the chapter office. "Hopefully contributions will continue to come in until we reach our goal of $38,565 for 1974," stated over-all Carmel Fund Chairman Mrs. Leland G. Cagwin.

The functions of the local Red Cross chapters are many and varied. The American Red Cross has a mandate from the government to help in time of disaster and to handle emergency communications for the military and their families. In Carmel, the ARC supports ambulances for emergency needs in Carmel Valley, Big Sur and Carmel. This service is without charge and is unique in the country.

The local Red Cross chapter also trains swimming and first aid instructors. Last year in Calrmel 1,244 young people were trained in these courses. The Carmel and Monterey chapters have joined with the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula to provide urgently needed volunteer blood donors.

Somewhat unusual is the "loan closet," located at the Carmel Chapter house on 8th and Dolores in Carmel, where wheel chairs, hospital beds, canes, crutches and many other patient needs can be obtained absolutely free of charge for as long as needed. "The Carmel chapter has more services than some Red Cross chapters twice its size," concludes Mrs. Cagwin.



TO HOUSE hay and grain, the barn currently under construction beside the access to Carmel Valley Poultry on Carmel Valley Road, was issued a use permit nearly four months ago. Since it is an agricultural building, no design approval was necessary.

City of Carmel to appeal use permit for motel

The county zoning administrator's decision to grant a use permit for the 162-unit Meharry motel to be located at the intersection of Rio Road and Carmel Rancho Boulevard will be appealed by the City of Carmel, voted the city council members last Tuesday.

Increased burdens on the areas's limited water supply and the likelihood of increased traffic congestion were cited as the the basis of opposition to the development.

Zoning Administrator Bob Slimmon, who approved the application for a use permit by the Meharry Development Company, stated that a motel operation would comply with the commercial zoning of the area. Slimmon's decision to approve of the project when it came before him last year was successfully appealed to the Board of Supervisors shortly thereafter. The use permit now under debate has been amended and the size of the development site reduced from 11 to 5 acres.

Site selection for corporation yard begins

Several possible sites for the location of a corporation yard for Carmel Valley were suggested during the first meeting last Friday of the Citizens' Site Committee, charged with locating the facility.

The seven-member committee, appointed on March 17 by the board of supervisors to find sites for both a corporation yard and a compaction plant, has been given 90 days to make its recommendation. If no suitable location is presented for the corporation yard within that period, the Board of Supervisors has stated it will condemn property for the facility.

In accordance with priorities established by Supervisor Willard Branson, the committee is concentrating its initial effort on selecting a site for the corporation yard, said Chairman Bill Brown. Consideration of locating both the corporation yard and the compaction plant on the same piece of land will be given if the yard site is sufficiently large Brown stated.

A determination to avoid locating the corporation yard in or adjacent to a residential district was voiced by several committee members. "An isolated canyon which would house a combined site, perhaps including the proposed Pacific Gas and Electric and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph plants, would be ideal," said Bob Slimmon, county zoning administrator.

Currently, the committee is actively investigating at least three sites in Carmel Valley for use as a corporation yard and several other possibilities are under their consideration. Individuals with recommendations for the location of the yard are urged to call Bill Brown (624-8693) or Dolores Anderson (659-2841).

Don Wilson, of the Department of Public works, explained that the corporation yard would require a minimum of four acres, preferably in Carmel Valley, west of Schulte Road. "The closer the facility is to Highway 1, the lower the operational costs will be and the more desirable in the long run,' he stated.

UNDER THE OAKS AND AMONG THE CACTI

Twenty-four members from the Santa Clara flying club rendezvoused in the Valley last week, had dinner, and returned home. An elderly distinguished pilot sporting an oversized badge identifying him as "Flyer of the Hour" happily confessed that he had won this distinction for making the worst landing on the Carmel Valley field!

ATHENS WATER FOLLIES

Nationally famous aquatic entertainment comes to Carmel Valley In this Sunday with the Athens Water Ballet. Besides a variety of water ballets, there will be championship diving, dancing, comedy diving, and nationally famous swimming stars.

The Athens Water Follies has been featured in such publications as the "Saturday Evening Post" and "Sports Illustrated," presented on such television programs as Ed Sullivan's, Art Baker's "You Asked For It," and Richfield's "Success Story." Members of the group have traveled all over the world on tours sponsored by the State Department and the Armed Forces.

SPCA WARNING

Parents are warned about seasonal pets received at Easter, by the Monterey County SPCA.

Baby chicks, baby ducks and small turtles (sometimes painted to add to their allure) can possibly carry a disease known as Salmonellosis. This bacteria, Salmonella, is somewhat similar to the one found in food poisoning and causes about the same symptoms in humans. Salmonellosis can be severe, causing gastro-intestinal inflamation and poisoning.

In the case of rabbits, there is always the risk of Tularemia, a disease carried by rabbits, transmitted to humans by touching a diseased rabbit. Rabbits are also 'host carriers' of the tape worm, which dogs and cats are susceptible to.

The Monterey County SPCA would also remind parents that baby rabbits (in fact all very young animals) need special housing, special food and special care.

FUTURE FOR TRAFFIC

The time for restoration of full traffic on Carmel Valley Road one-fourth mile east of the Joan Baez School cannot still be set, Bruce McClain, county road department head, reported last week to the Board of Supervisors.

The present detour for westbound traffic, using Los Laureles Grade and Miramonte Road, will not be necessary in the near future, according to McClain. He said the slip-out on Carmel Valley Road can be corrected before summer.

The one-way traffic on the same road, near Wagon Wheel, will be corrected sooner, he added.

The damage done to the Carmel River bridge at Robinson Canyon Road will also be corrected before summer, McClain reported, but he added that he cannot predict when the slides and slip-outs on the same road in two other places will be mended.

THE TOWN CRIER

The spring flowers may be out, but the snow lingers onthe hills around. The one-way stretch on Carmel Valley Road still lures traffic in the WRONG WAY. Valleyites are finding it pretty terrifying to encounter an auto head-on at midnight, but the bolder law breakers even do it in the daytime.

A greater number of disciplinary problems at school exists in the Upper Valley than any other area in the CUSD, it was noted at a panel meeting at the Parents Club at Tularcitos School last week. Among reasons cited for such behavior is the lack of recreational facilities--in fact, we are sadly lacking in such things as a park, or a public gathering place that is open for children. The village is really an adult community catering to adult needs.

A growing number of flagpoles in the yards of Valley residents was noted this week as flags flew at half-mast for our former President, Dwight David Eisenhower. Monday was a day of mourning as our Village Post Office and library closed their doors and the Bank of America pulled its blinds and observed a period of quiet.

BANK BANDIT

The impulsive bandit who grabbed a can containing $160 in quarters at the Bank of America in Carmel Valley Village last week and then fled on foot up El Caminito remained at large yesterday.

According to the Sheriff's office, the investigation has been turned over to the FBI, but so far no one has been arrested. The impromptu robbery occured last Thursday morning shortly after the bank opened at 10 a.m.

The bandit, described as a young man in his 20's with brown hair pulled back in a pony tail, snatched the can from a teller's window and raced out the door.

In the course of his hasty exist, he spilled most of the quarters in the bank's parking lot. The remainder were recovered by a vacant lot on El Caminito.

COMMERCIAL AREA MAY BE LIMITED

A recommended policy to guide the future use of commercially-zoned property in Carmel Valley Village was adopted by the Monterey County Planning Commission yesterday and sent on to the Board of Supervisors for final approval.

The series of five recommendations about the basic Village area was made by a Village Study Advisory Committee appointed last summer by the planning commission to review development guidelines.

The six months study was triggered by an application by Harry Bell for a use permit to construct 84 senior citizens' apartments on an eight-acre parcel of commercially-zoned land behind the Carmel Valley Post Office.

5 WAYS TO LIGHT RIGHT AND SAVE ENERGY.

You can lighten your electric load by following these basics:

1. Turn off all lights that are not essential.
2. Never use a higher wattage bulb than is necessary to do the job. Where just a little light is needed, replace large wattage bulbs with smaller ones.
3. The wattage of a bulb does not measure the amount of light it gives, but rather the energy needed to light it. (Light is measured in lumens.) One 100-watt bulb gives 50% more light than four 25-watt bulbs for the same amount of energy. So where a large amount of light is needed, it's more efficient to use one large bulb instead of several smaller ones.
4. Fluorescent lighting is more economical, watt for watt, than incandescent bulbs. Fluorescent lamps give five times the light and last up to 10 times as long as ordinary bulbs. They're cooler, too.
5. Outdoor lighting should be restricted to your minimum needs for safety and security. Don't use lighting for merely decorative purposes.

All PG&E electric customers—no matter where they live—get much of their electricity from power plants fueled by scarce oil and natural gas. So it's important for everyone to help save energy wherever possible.

Community Chapel Guild

The April meeting of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Guild will be held on Wednesday, April 10, 12:15 p.m. in Fellowship Hall. Dessert will be served under the chairmanship of Mrs. Leon Amyx, who will be assisted by co-chairmen Mrs. Clifford Bolgard, Mrs. Rudolf Bautz, Mrs. Peter Wangoe and Mrs. James Fitch.

Guest speakers will be Mr. and Mrs. John Woolfenden, who will present an illustrated commentary on southern Spain, Lucia and Mallorca, which is the birthplace of Father Junipero Serra.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolfenden are well-known residents of Carmel Valley. Prior to coming to the Valley, John Woolfenden did public relations work for the motion picture industry and had the opportunity to travel extensively. Since he is a good photographer, his slides are outstanding and always interesting. At present he is employed by the Monterey Peninsula Herald as a feature writer and editor of the Sunday edition.

Woolfenden is best known for his delightful weekly column, "The Innocent Bystander," which deals on a multitude of subjects, and through which the Carmel Valley Village area has become known as "Sun Drenched Upper Carmel Valley." He so humorously portrays the trials and tribulations of Carmel Valley gardening and coping with the wild creatures, that he has made kindred spirits of all his friends and neighbors.

VALLEYITE Mrs. Paul (Jody) Cooper takes time out from cataloguing items for the "Great Barter" to give attention to her handsome doberman, "Topaz." The opening for the fund-fund raising event benefiting the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art is May 2, 5-10 p.m. (reservation - $5 per person accepted at 624-8027.) Shoppers on May 3, 4 and 5 will have an opportunity to purchase a 200-year-old Mandarian robe, two Chinese wedding skirts (100 years old), and a piano manufactured in Paris in 1860.

Red Cross Drive

A grateful Upper Carmel Valley Chairman of the 1974 American Red Cross Fund Drive, Mrs. Philip Walker, invited all neighborhood captains and volunteers, who had canvassed during the recent fund-raising campaign, to her home for cocktails last Friday evening in appreciation of the fine job they had done.

Workers were invited to bring their husbands and wives to meet special guests, Katherine Harriman, in charge of volunteers, and Jean Snow, in head of publicity for the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Red and white tapers, flowers, and cloths were used in the attractive decor by the hard-working chairman, who, in addition to organizing the Upper Valley drive, had made two television appearances and taped a radio appeal to assist with the county wide collection of funds.

Volunteers and their areas included: Sara and Bill Farr, Los Tulares and East Carmel Valley Road; Mrs. John Woolfenden, Valle Vista; Sterling Mummert, Holman Road; Kathryn Walker, Camp Steffani, Miramonte, and Lower Southbank; Mrs. Louis Gardner, Flight Road; Mrs. Fred Scott, Poppy; Mrs. Loretta Kline, Lilac Lane; Mrs. Walter Mauzey, Sage Road; Mrs. Robert Henry, Milpitas; Luther Washington, Lower El Cammito; Mrs. Fred Horne, Chapparal Road; Mrs. Joseph Stekly, Lupine Lane, and Miss Natalie Raymond, Ford Road.

Also at work were Mrs. Dorothy Chappell, Story Road; Mrs. Lou Allaire, Mrs. George Palmer, and Mrs. Roger Sherman, Paso Mediano, Paso Cresta and Paso Honda; Mrs. Don Sweiss, River Road; Miss Sherrie Swiess, Del Rio Road; Mrs. Peter De Haas, upper Country Club Drive; Mrs. Julie Power and Mrs. Edith Alt, Lower Country Club Drive; Mrs. Stan Roberts and Mrs. Chris Sapulding, Rancho Fiesta to Rancho Road; and Mrs. Roy Lorenz, Lower Laurel Drive and Toyon Way.

Faithfully serving were Mrs. Fred Bohle, Mid-Laurel Drive; Mrs. Henry Wilson, Jet Lane; Mrs. Ben Ahl, Deer Meadow Place; Mrs. Leonard Rhoades, Upper Circle; Mrs. Ruth Francis, Lower Circle; Mrs. James Cecka, Esquiline Road; Mrs. Raymond Danielson, Village Drive; Mrs. Virginia De Maria, West Carmel Valley Road; Miss Alice Harwood and Miss Winifred Howe, Upper Laurel Drive; Mrs. Paul Ecker, Meadow Place; Doyt Early, Panetta Road; Mrs. Ruth Pryer, La Paloma and Buena Vista; Mrs. Frank Young, Calle de los Ositos; Mrs. Hiram Bishop, Quien Sabe; Miss Kathy Bishop, Punte Del Monte; Misses Laurie and Linda Ford, El Cuenco and Calle de la Travesia; and Miss Virginia Hannah, El Hemmorro.

Memorial service

Memorial services will be held this Sunday at 2 p.m. for Marjorie (Peggy) Lukinbill Ijams of Carmel Valley.

The Rev. Howard Bull of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula will officiate at the services to be held at the grave of her mother, Marjorie A. Casson Lukinbill, at El Carmelo Cemetary, Pacific Grove.

Mrs. Ijams died February 16 at her home on Lilac Lane at the age 58. While she suffered from failing health for a number of years, her death was unexpected.

Cremation was held with Farlinger Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

A native of San Francisco, she was raised in Stockton and was a graduate of College of the Pacific, class of 1937.

A resident of the Monterey Peninsula for many years, she had made her home in Pebble Beach and in Robles Del Rio in the Valley. She and her former husband, William Ijams Sr., were both active in the Pebble Beach Sports Car Club. William Ijams is now with the Peace Corps in Maichew, Etheopia.

Prior to her retirement from a teaching career of 25 years, she taught in the Pacific Grove and Moss Landing Elementary Schools.

Mrs. Ijams leaves her two sons and daughters-in-law, William Jr. and Mary Ijams, James and Shirley Ijams, and nine grandchildren: Teresa, Mark, An-ne, and Kathleen Ijams, Regan and Garth Frazer, all of Carmel Valley; Heather and Jennifer Ijams, of San Jose, and Miss Robyn Frazer, of Apple Valley.

The family prefers contributions for cancer research to be sent to the American Cancer Society, Box 1028, Monterey.

La Rancheria Property Owners

La Rancheria Property Owners Association members are requested to attend a special meeting on Thursday, April 18, 7:30 p.m. at the Carmel Valley Inn. On the agenda for consideration will be the adoption of a resolution affecting various properties adjacent to and using La Rancheria roads.

The Association recently elected new officers. Heading the group are Edward B. Hubbard, president; Ray Adelmeyer, vice president and secretary; and William Stahl, treasurer. The board of directors includes Gerald B. Dalton and James R. Green.

St. Pat provides theme

A lucky shamrock plant centered the St. Patrick's Day buffet table at the benefit bridge and canasta party sponsored in March by the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Guild at the Fellowship Hall.

The Irish theme was carried out in prizes and decorations by co-hostesses Mrs. Rudi Bautz and Mrs. John Darch. Cheese cake, baked by Julie Power and Vera Bautz, was enjoyed by the guests during the dessert and coffee hour.

Prizes were awarded to players with "the luck'o the Irish," including Dorothy Broberg and Mary Young, who were awarded first and second places in bridge, and to canasta highs, Elsie Siemens and Vera Stokes. Table prize winners were Martha Huff, Novells Nicholsen, Bernice Leoni, Dorothy Edwards, Sandy Cisnero, Matilda MacDonald, Mildred Blacow and Rosa Clark.

The April party will be arranged by co-hostesses Jean Stekly and Millie Krejeir. Please phone Vera Bautz at 659-2951 for reservations.

Get well messages

St. Dunstan's card benefit

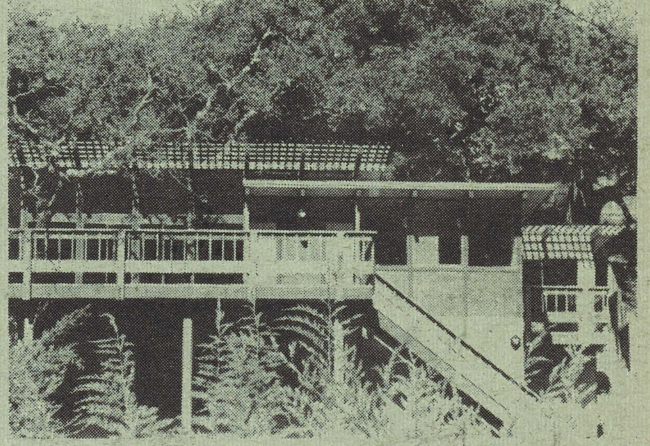
"Green for Spring" was the pretty theme for the tallies, place mats, nut cups, and even dessert at the benefit bridge and canasta card party sponsored by the St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Kathryn Walker was assisted at the March event, held at her home on Flight Road, by co-hostesses Romana Ryan and Mary Young. A new player, Mrs. Neveau, of Carmel, was welcomed to the group.

Exquisite little brass plates from India, trimmed with miniature bouquets of straw and velvet blossoms were presented as table prizes to Gene Fairchild, Connie Service, Mike Cecka, Natalie Raymond, Bernice Leoni, Katherine Harriman, Peggy Kvenild, Mildred Blacow, Nellie Mirani, Louise Keonig and Natalie Compas.

Placing high in bridge was Gene Fairchild, with Bernice Leoni, second. Louise Koenig placed first in canasta and Vera Stokes second.

Mrs. Philip Mothersill will be co-hostess at the April 24 party at her Lupine Lane home with Charlotte Spangler and Kathryn Walker. For reservations please call 659-2280.



ALL ARE invited to an open house this Saturday and Sunday from 10-5 of the home at 23 Paso Cresta, recently completed by Natural Development, a relatively new Valley business owner by Warren Kaufman of Panetta Road. Nestled in a hedge of 20-year-old cypress trees, the 3-bedroom house reflects extensive use of natural material and hand-detailed woodwork. Viewers will also have a preview of French antiques exhibited by Ted Harris and of Persian carpets by Peterson Conway.

Skydiving, anyone?

A note to the "Phantom Oak Moth" from over the hill in Salinas on the Hartnell campus advises daring Valleyites of a parachuting class which began last Monday at Hartnell's auxiliary gym.

Instructor Sue Newman has won awards in national competition for parachuting. Sue has more than 1,600 jumps to her credit.

Students passing the course will qualify for skydiving certification. The class is limited to 40 students; so, if you are interested, contact Bob Kelley, Hartnell athletic director.

'Pots & Plants' by Pansy

Next Thursday, April 11, at 8 p.m. at the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center, (please note change of meeting place) the Carmel Valley Garden Association will hold its monthly meeting.

Guest speaker, Mrs. Ruth B. Berliner, will present a talk on "Flower Arranging for Exhibition."

Mrs. Berliner is director of Central Coast Counties District of California Garden Clubs, Inc., a professional flower arranger, and a fully accredited judge. Men, women and children are all invited to attend this meeting.

This year there is a very special section for Junior Exhibits and Arrangements, with cash prizes being offered to juniors.

Copies of the new program for this year's Carmel Valley Flower Show, to be held May 4-5, will be available for distribution. Refreshments will be served.

Spring horse show

In the Spring Horse Show held on March 24 at the Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club, a California State Horsemen's approved show, several local residents were among the winners.

Omitted in last week's column was first place winner in the Model English Mount in the Western Senior & Halter Classes. This honor went to "Splash of Soda," owned by Marie Clinton and shown by Riley Wilson.

In the English Senior (18 and over) division, Marie Clinton placed first in English Pleasure, and Laura Culley placed first and Marie Clinton placed second in English Equitation.

Monterey Peninsula students who want help in getting summer jobs should register for work with Student Employment Service during Easter week, Monday, April 8 through Thursday, April 11, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Work applications may be obtained from the high school counseling offices or at the Student Employment Service Office, 480 Webster Street, Monterey. Students should complete the work application form before reporting during Easter vacation.

Student Employment Service policy is to give all students an opportunity to earn money, learn a job or skill and most importantly, build a record of work experience.

This informational advertisement paid for by the Student Employment Service Committee, a non-profit organization.

Will's Fargo rides again

"We try to treat people here as if they were visiting us in our own home," says Will Fay, co-owner of Will's Fargo Restaurant in Carmel Valley, which celebrated the opening of its 16th season last Monday.

Fay and his wife, Barbara, who manage the early California-style restaurant were greeted by scores of customers, many of them old friends, "Some of those who joined us that evening have never missed an opening," Fay acknowledged.

While Will's Fargo is a seasonal restaurant, closing annually during January, February and March, it manages to resume operation each year with the same professional staff. Hostesses Virginia Adadow and Alla Moore have welcomed guests at the restaurant for nine and 15 years, respectively.

Crediting customers is not taken lightly at this establishment. Guests are personally guided into the Butcher Shop, upon entering, to select their entree. Steaks are cut to individual specifications "before the customers' very eyes."

A short amble brings guests to the dimly-lit, old-fashioned bar, where they may partake of cocktail offerings. On the wall at one side of the bar is an arresting collection of mesh-type metal handbags, which were popular during the 1920's. The collection originated with a single purse hung by Fay and grew over the years through individual donations from customers. The result is a fine and varied grouping which creates a shimmering image recalling visions of a bygone era.

The entree offerings at the Fargo are unsurpassed for quality. According to chief chef Clifford Washington, who has been with the restaurant since its founding, the Fargo has maintained the same meat purveyor over the years. "There is no substitute for proper aging of the meat," explains Washington. In fact, prior to the establishment of Will's Fargo, Fay used the same meat suppliers to provide for his San Francisco restaurant, "Le Boeuf," which he operated in the late 1950's.

The gourmet will delight not only in the hearty and delectable fare but in the unusual surroundings at the Fargo. The interior immediately brings to mind the good old days and the suptuous nights of early California. One of the oldest buildings in the Village, the restaurant was built in 1927 as a tea room. George Whitcomb, of Carmel Valley, followed a drawing on the back of a shirtboard in constructing the building, which is patterned after the architecture of California missions.

Since its completion, the building has served in varied capacities, including as a beer hall, grocery store and road house. When the Fay assumed ownership of the restaurant, he completely redid the building in an attempt to capture the flavor of the Gold Rush years. And flavor is something Will's Fargo provides in abundance.

Will's
FARGO

BARBARA AND WILL Fay were joined by many friends and guests in Monday night's celebration of the 16th annual opening of Will's Fargo Restaurant on Carmel Valley Road.

Sunset Center to present jazz concert

The 110 members of the Santa Cruz Chorale and their special guests, the Blue Saints Jazz Band, will present an all jazz concert in Carmel's Sunset Center Theater at 8 p.m. on April 6.

All tickets are General Admission and available at the door. Prices are $2.50, with special Student and Military rates of $1.

Highlighting the program will be the performance of a new composition by Shurtleff, Two Directions, a work for choir and big band. Shurtleff's earlier compositions performed by the Chorale have included works expecially commissioned for the chorale's 1969 tour.

There may not be any mining for precious rocks or metals in Carmel Valley, but there is a unique quarrying operation that has been worked continuously for nearly 50 years. River run, the natural sand and gravel extracted from a river bed, is the exclusive product of the Valley Rock & Sand Co., located on the Carmel Valley River at Robinson Canyon Road.

What do you do with river run, once you have managed to collect and refine it? The possibilities are numerous and varied, say Jack Grewell and Jack Darch, co-owners of Rock & Sand.

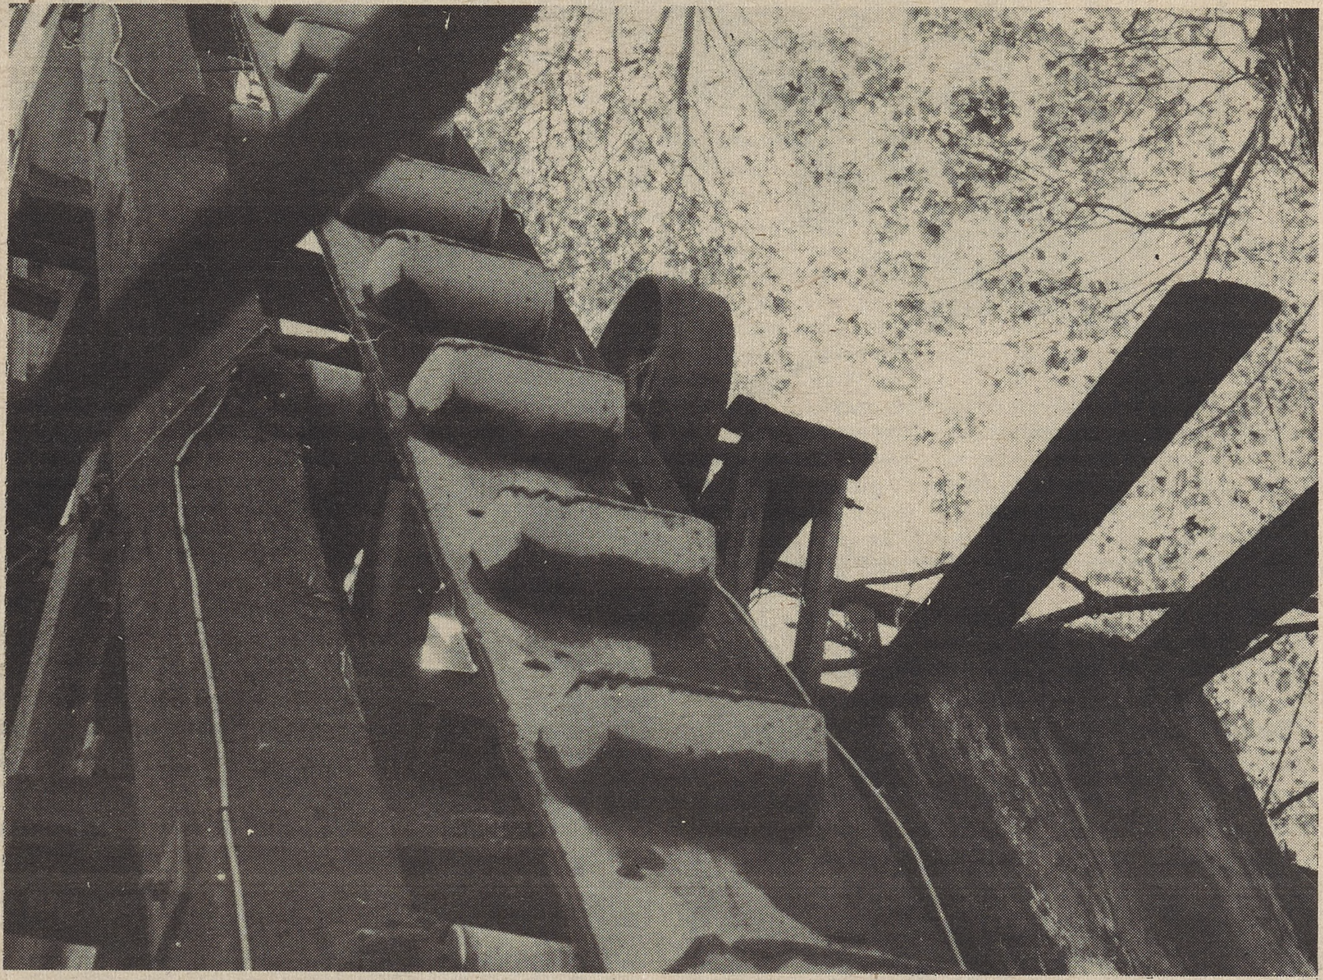
According to Darch, the large size stones (1½ inches) are used as draining rocks around septic tanks to facilitate wastewater seepage; the medium size rocks (¾ inch) are used as gravel for a groundcover in landscaping and for concrete; the small rocks (½ inch) are used mostly as a cover for driveways) and the sand is used in construction as a filler beneath concrete, since it is relatively inexpensive and compacts well.

The rock and sand business is a seasonal one, with dredging done only when the river is running, for ecological reasons. "Normally, we try to get the river run from May through October, and if we are lucky, we'll stay in till December. The stockpiles we accumulate during these months, we use during the rest of the year," says Darch.

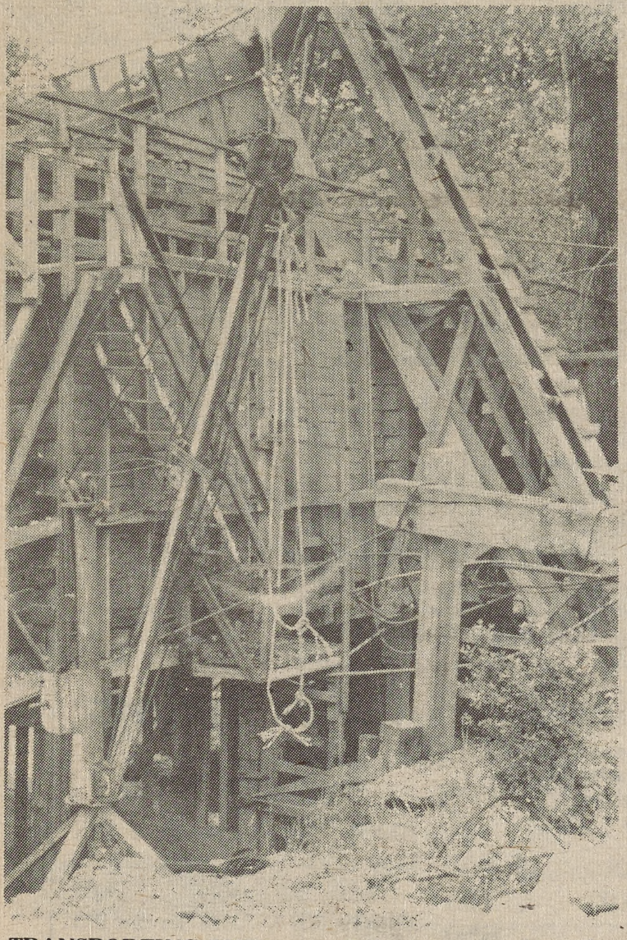
A shovel loader scoops the run from the river bed into a truck, which transports and dumps it into stockpiles beside a nearby wooden shed, worn by age as much as by use.

Inside, the run is first fed into a rock crusher, which eliminates massive stones, then passed up to a washing and vibrating screen operation, which sorts the gravel, sloughing the three different sized gravels into separate bunkers (holding bins). The sand pours out with the wash water and is recovered when the water evaporates. The river water which is pumped in for the washing process is returned to the river.

Darch and Grewell admit they are relative newcomers to this particular operation although Grewell has been with the business for more than 18 years.



"IN THE early 40's, the river water was 24 feet deep over the bank where the bunker now stands," recalls Frank Murphy, whose father began the river run operation nearly a half-century ago.



TRANSPORTING THE run and the water to clean the rocks requires the use of various conveyor belts.

In 1926 M.J. Murphy purchased the 14¾-acre tract on which the Rock & Sand Company now stands. Part of the James Meadows tract, the land previously belonged to Alan Griffin, former publisher of the Monterey Peninsula Herald, and Ray De Yoe, a well-known property developer in the Valley.

Murphy had established his business 22 years earlier in Carmel, where Wells Fargo Bank now stands and where the Carmel Plaza is now being built.

It was after aquiring the land in Carmel Valley that he decided to go into the river run business, installing a crusher in 1928.

During the first 10 years of operation, Rock & Sand's river run was supplied exclusively by the Carmel River. (Presently, the local bed run is supplemented by outside sources.)

"Those were probably the best years for steelhead fishing," reflects Frank Murphy, son of Mike Murphy and current manager of M.J. Murphy, Inc. located in Carmel Valley since 1952.

" 'Let's go up to the Murphy's hole and catch a mess of steelhead,' people would say, because we'd dragline a long, beautiful stretch in the river bed -- a perfect resting spot for the fish.

"At that time," says Murphy, "The crusher was located in the center of the river, just a bit east of its present location, and a drag line scooped the run on-site.

"Then, in 1936, the year we had the terrific flood in the Valley, the crusher was wrecked and washed away. We salvaged what we could and then built the crusher which we still use that stands beside the river, a short distance away."

Darch views the impending changes in the Carmel River water system with some scepticism. A resident of Schulte Road, he has suffered property damage in the past due to flood tides.

"The river just dries up in the summers, and the trees along the banks have been gradually dying. When the high water comes, there aren't enough roots to hold the banks. That results in damage to a good deal of local property, including the Holt Ranch, which suffered considerably in the 1969 flood," Darch said.

The proposed dam on the upper Carmel River could dry up the river even more, Darch speculates, "If it is used as a means of storage. The water is accumulated during the rainy season and released slowly, however, we could get water running all year long."

While this would alleviate the problem of property flooding, a wet river means "no go" in the rock and sand business.

"Luckily, it'll take a long time to build and who knows how it will be used in the end," he laughed.

SAND POURS to the ground following the sorting of rocks for size variations.

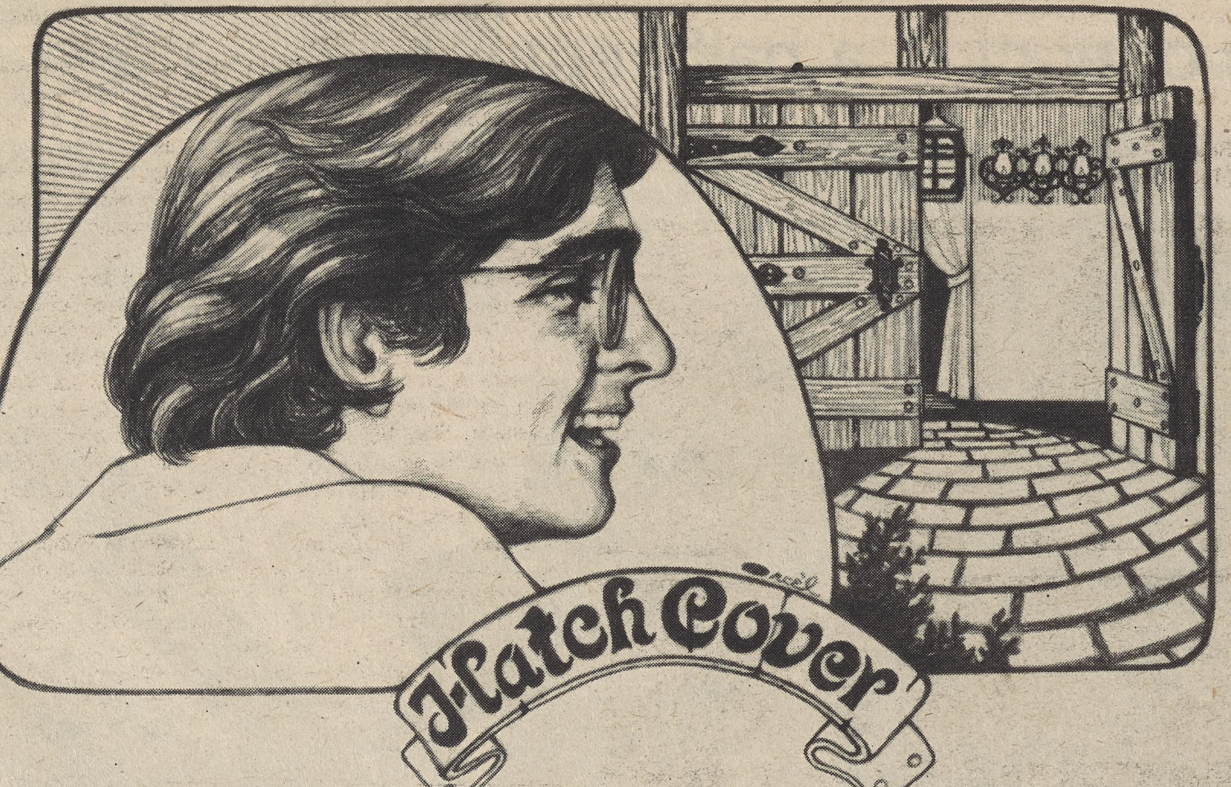
DISCOVER THE MONTEREY PENINSULA'S EXCITING WORLD OF DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT



Discovering what lay behind the Hatch Cover sign has been a long-awaited adventure for me. Like a plain book cover, the street-side entrance gives little indication of what is hidden within.

The narrow, entry walkway widens, quite surprisingly, into an enclosed, decorative court. Torch lights illuminate flowers and trees and two great double doors of wood and iron. Emblazoned on one door is "Dining Room," on the other, "Lounge Bar." The doors are at right angles to each other since the restaurant forms a U around the court.

Pulling open the huge dining room door, we entered a hall that separates the two main areas. A tropical fish tank, glowing with colored lights, is the focal point. Above it, extending from the wall and dramatically lighted, is a wooden masthead carved in the shape of a woman.

One end of the hall as it enters the lounge and bar is a gallery of interesting paintings. Throughout both the lounge, bar, entertainment area, and the dining room are plaques of antique nautical signs decorated with high relief sculptures of ships, casks and steins. These were found in England by Barbara McFarland, and are under consignment to the Hatch Cover. Barbara will soon be opening a shop in Carmel to display her fine collection.

The dining room is large but cozily arranged with designed dividers and sectioned areas. Golden candle light exposes the dark wood of the hatchcover tables and captains chairs, the huge beams and pillars, and the antique hanging against the light walls.

Close to the entrance is the open broiler where you can watch your steaks being cooked over red-hot coals. The appetizing aroma fills the room. While your steaks are cooking you fill a plate with salads, cottage cheese, tomatoes, appetizers and warm french bread from the salad bar. Also included with the dinners are baked potato or rice and coffee or tea. Cocktails can be ordered from your table as well as dinner wines and after dinner drinks.

The Teriaki Steak was tender and delicious, with the complete meal living up to my expectations and previous praise from friends.

Besides steaks from the broiler, the menu offers many different entrees and side dishes: Teriaki Chicken, Lobster, Steak and Lobster Combination, Teriaki Shrimp, Lamb, and Fresh Fish. Desserts include Ice Cream and Cheesecake. Listed also are Hot Buttered Rum and Hatchcover Coffee.

Michael Tancredi is the owner-manager. His wide experience and creative ingenuity has made the Hatch Cover a widely known success.

Mike worked at various restaurants to put himself through school, graduating from the University of Arizona at Tuscon with a degree in clinical psychology. He then attended graduate school at San Jose. While at San Jose he worked up from waiter to management at Chuck's Steak House of Hawaii. He opened the Hatch Cover in 1968 and will re-open The Fat Admiral on Cannery Row next to the Steinbeck Theater June 1. The Fat Admiral has been closed for alterations.

Hechter exhibits at Tantamount

Paintings in casein are featured in Natalie Hechter's first one-man show in the Tantamount's Green Room Gallery from April 3 through April 30.

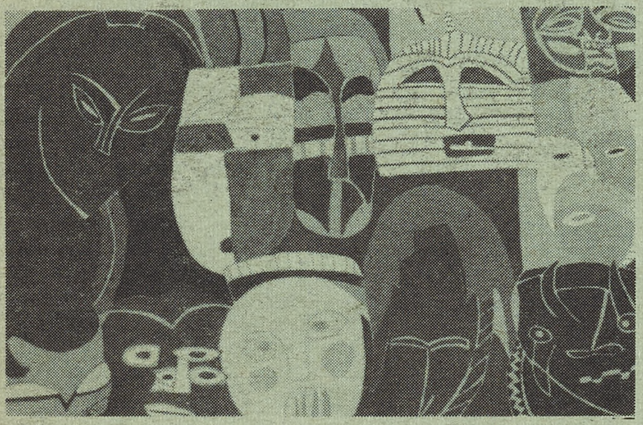
Although some drawings and collages are included in the show, after a four-year study, Ms. Hechter has found casein the medium most suited to color transitions, one of her main objectives in painting.

A 1951 B.F.A. graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, Natalie Hechter continued her study of painting and drawing at the Oakland College of Arts and Crafts, and with Tom Elliott in Berkeley.

A move in 1965 to Colorado, where she lived for six years, led to many group exhibitions in the area, including an exhibition in the first Colorado Biennial in the new Denver Metropolitan Art Museum, shows in Pueblo and Canon City and in the Gilpin County Arts Association in Central City.

Now living in Carmel since her return to California nearly a year and a half ago, Ms. Hechter has exhibited locally in the 9th Annual Competition of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, the Pacific Grove Art Center Annual, the 1973 Monterey County Fair, and the 9th Annual Watercolor Competition of the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History. She has recently been named to the Board of Directors of the Pacific Grove Art Center.

Gallery hours at the Tantamount are 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily except Sunday, and Monday Friday and Saturday evenings from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m.



"MASKS" IS one of the paintings in cassein by Natalie Hechter on exhibit at the Tantamount Theatre throughout April. The technique utilized by Miss Hechter involves the use of milk derivatives in the production of opaque colors.

'Bogie' in 'Caine Mutiny'

Humphrey Bogart was nominated for an Oscar for his portrayal of neurotic Captain Queeg in "The Caine Mutiny," scheduled for two showings this weekend at the Tantamount, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:40.

Filmed in color, in 1954, the movie is based on Herman Wouk's Pulitzer Prize novel, brought vividly to screen life by Bogie, Van Johnson, Jose Ferrer, Tom Tully and Fred MacMurray.

THE NPS Friday Evening concert series will feature a harp recital April 19 at 8 p.m. in Ingersoll Hall on the school campus. Big Sur resident Georgia Kelly will be featured.

Harp recital at NPS

The Naval Postgraduate School's Friday Evening Concert Series will feature Georgia Kelly, a unique performing artist of Big Sur in its next program. Miss Kelly will present a harp recital with selections from the works of Debussy, Handel, Mozart and Satie, as well as some of her own arrangements of traditional and contemporary music.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. on April 19 in Ingersoll Hall on the NPS campus, according to newly elected President of the concert series, Lieutenant Commander Julian "Skip" Wright.

Miss Kelly, a musical prodigy, began her formal music education on the piano at the age of three. She fell in love with the harp in elementary school, and studied in the instrument in high school and college. While majoring in music at the College of Notre Dame in Belmont, California, she studied harp with master musicians Marjorie Cheauvel and Joel Andrews. She has performed with the music faculty, at Stanford University and with pianist Ira Mendlowitz.

Joining her in the program will be flutist Jan Lovett and pianist Anne Wright.

Tickets, at $3 each, may be purchased at Abinante's Music Store, Monterey, and at the Student Mail Center at the Naval Postgraduate School. To order by mail, send a check to Friday Evening Concert Series, SMC 2463, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, Ca., 93940.

Seating in Ingersoll Hall is limited and advanced purchase of tickets is highly recommended. For more information phone 646-2023.

By LUCY SMITHSON

EVERY SPRING about this time we take an iron tamping bar about the size of a broomstick and pound down the softened earth around each fence post. When we can't find the iron bar, as often happens with seasonal tools, we up-end the shovel and wham away with its handle. It's not just the winter rains and shifting sands that make the corral fence lean crazily. It's an itchy, hairy horse that thinks the fence was put there to provide him with scratching posts.

Birds are singing, poppies are blooming, and horses are trying to shed their winter coat. How kind of Mother Nature to provide birds with all that soft hair with which to line their nests.

Our horse rubs on every tree in the pasture like a cat rubbing his mistress' ankles. Our dog does not love the couch more than Horse loves the barn wall. Smitches of hair are caught in every board he can snuggle up to.

We do not clip or blanket our horse in the winter. This means he has to be carefully dried out after winter workouts.

In July he is gleaming and elegant and terribly proud of himself. He looks down his long nose at humans and says, "I am an aristocratic Thoroughbred and allow you to ride me only through the generosity of my purebred heart." We are not fooled by this because we remember November through March, when he is shaggy, muddy and silly-looking.

By late spring, Horse is ragged and tattered. The baby's beloved teddybear is not as motheaten as he.

We decide to help him to a new spring coat. A new coat for Easter - that would be nice.

Pony has two patches of black hair on her shaggy, grey sides. She scraped the hide off these spots last December, when she wrecked her pony cart on the way to the Santa Claus parade. What shows there now is her summer coat.

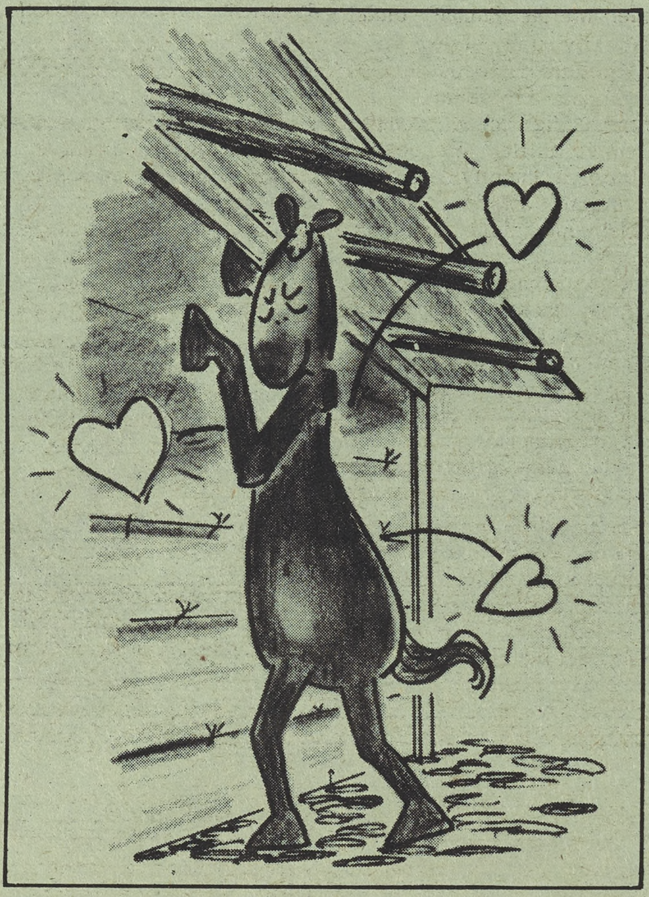
The summer coat is waiting under the molting fur. It's just a matter of peeling the outer coat to expose next season's splendor.

Horses do not peel as easily as an onion. Perhaps if the comic strip character, Gordo, were to walk by in his black suit, the long hairs would leave the horse and fly to him. The alternative is for a human being, to strip the horse.

The handiest tool for this procedure is a shedding blade. This is a toothed-piece of limber steel about a foot long with a leather handle on both ends. Using two hands, you can put some pressure on the jagged blade and really pull horsehair. A metal curry comb will also work, but it is not easy to put pressure on it. Actually, it was designed as a brush cleaner, not a horse-grooming tool.

A cheap substitute for a shedding blade is a used hacksaw blade. Handles of cardboard and plastic tape can be added.

Brushes are not much use for stripping a winter coat. They don't pull many hairs out and immediately become clogged with whatever hair they do pull.



THE HORSE loves his barn.

Work the horse to a light sweat before starting on him with a shedding blade. The hair will come out more easily from the opened follicle.

Start on the neck, behind the ears, and work back to the tail. Neck hair seems to cling harder than back hair. Working the hips and croup is very satisfying because great globs of hair will come off there.

Crouch down and use your shedding blade under the horse, too. He won't mind. Careful though of the tender skin in the wrinkles behind the elbows.

Some horses, particularly light-colored horses, develop bare patches on the tender belly skin at this time of year. We've heard several theories as to what cause this, ranging from food allergies to insects. The flies do seem to aim for these spots, so we treat them with a soothing medication that protects them from further irritation.

Almost every horse pretends to hate the feel of a shedding blade along his back. He skootches down in an exaggerated imitation of a horse with sore kidneys. Some horses lay their ears back and pretend they are going to kick. These are the same horses that act cinchy when saddled and have personality quirks. Speak sharply. If you encourage this sort of behavior by acting timid, your horse may actually carry through his threat.

Waving a hind leg during an energetic grooming is just another way in which a horse shows he would like to be a ham actor. Heckle him. Half of horsemanship is learning the right putdowns.

After the first stripping session, the ground will be covered with horsehair, but the horse will not look very different. It will take at least three days of this (and more like a week) to shed out a horse. A blanket at night will help food Mother Nature into letting go of the winter coat. If the itching continues under the blanket, however, the horse may damage it.

Even horses that have been clipped and blanketed all winter shed in the spring. They nibble their sides and get down and roll, trying to dig their ears into sandy holes, the same as any other horse.

"A pleasure afforded both the poor and the rich
Is the pleasure they get when they scratch where they itch."

It helps the family laundry if you wear a special coat or coverall for these shedding sessions and leave it outside when you come in.

ONE KIND of itching, unrelated to shedding of the winter coat, but is very typical of this season. That's tail rubbing. This occurs when Horse has been eating green grass and has consumed the worm eggs waiting there from last year.

The worms travel through the gut and come out in the droppings. Pinworms, especially, make a horse itchy in the rea. He backs up to the fence and does a hula dance. (Oh, if I could shimmy like my Shetland!)

We worm older horses twice a year, younger horses four times a year. It's not that younger horses get more worms; some worms always are present in most horses. We administer worm medicine to prevent the horses from showing symptoms of worminess, and older horses show the symptoms less readily than young horses. A better but more expensive plan is to feed some worm medicine several days every month. This can keep an animal almost worm-free.

5 WAYS
TO USE LESS ENERGY
WASHING & DRYING.

Follow these clean-living guidelines for energy conservation:

1. Fill your dishwasher completely before operating. Partial loads waste fuel and water. Even more savings can be realized by turning off your dishwasher after the final rinse before the drying cycle.
2. Use cold water to rinse dishes and operate your garbage disposer. Don't waste hot water.
3. Use full loads in your clothes washer and dryer, but don't overload.
4. Clean the lint filter in your dryer after every use.
5. Take advantage of special features on your washer that can save energy. For example, suds-savers let you re-use hot water for several loads.

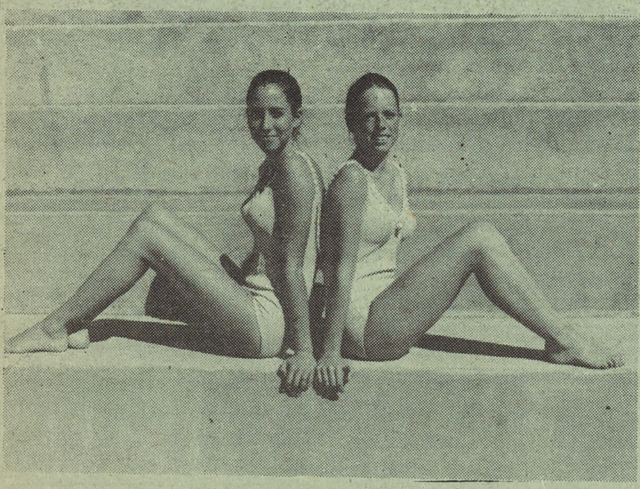
Winners named in photography contest

Winners of the Carmel Valley Outlook's "Give Us a Cover" photography contest were selected this week. Placing first was "Dandelions," phototographed by Scott Carson of Carmel Highlands.

Tootie Ferrasci, of Carmel Valley Road, received second prize for her photograph of a nursing calf taken at the Beattie Motors Ranch. An autumn scene of the Valley, captured by the camera of W.B. Zeleny, of Country Club Drive, placed third, and Mimi Bommersbach, of Valley Green Circle, was awarded fourth place honors for "Dr. Burelson's 'Fancy Foot' : Appaloosa Farm." Fifth place was captured by Mary and Marth Fletcher of Brookdale Drive for their joint entry featuring the head of a horse, "Misty Bar at Rest."

Winning photographs were selected from a collection of 25 entries by a panel of six judges. Each of the photographs submitted by amateurs in black and white photography documents a particular aspect aspect of life in Carmel Valley.

cover of the Outlook in coming weeks. The Outlook appreciates the cooperation of all those who contributed toward the success of the cover contest. A continued welcome is extended to all photographers of the Valley who wish to submit their work for publication.



GOLD MEDALISTS FROM Carmel Valley, Gerri Brandly (left) and Kathryn Blevens, winners of both the Pacific AAU Age-Group Duet Championships and the AAU Region XIII Age-Group Duet Championships this year in synchronized swimming, will join Cypress Swim Club teammates Allyson Braud and Maureen Dentch of Monterey to represent the Monterey Peninsula at the Senior National AAU Indoor Synchronized Swimming Championships during Easter Week in Canton,Ohio. Besides the team entry and their duet, both Valley girls will enter the solo competition, as will Ms. Dentch, winner of the 1974 Far Western AAU Solo Championship last month in Denver, Colorado.Ms. Brandly is also the 1974 Figures Champion in both Pacific AAU and Region XIII.

Annual kite festival attracts varied entries

The 44th Annual Carmel Kite Festival Saturday attracted contestants from all over the Peninsula and successful entries from as far away as Fremont and Yuba City.

The event was held on the lower athletic field at Carmel Middle School, under partially sunny skies.

Rhonda Accosta of Fremont, a student at Irvington High School, won the Ernest Calley Perpetual Plaque Trophy (grand champion award) for the third time in the past four years.

The winner of the Willis White Trophy for best designed kite was won by Luanna Wythe, of Monterey.

Miss Wythe and Miss Accosta also won ribbons in other categories.

Rev. Willis White founded the kite festival in 1930, and it has been held every year since, always attracting persons of widely varying ages and kite-building abilities. The festival was directed for many years by Ernest Calley, a shop teacher at the old Sunset School, until he retired.

Since the mid-1950s the recreation department of the Carmel Unified School District has directed the festival. The Carmel Lions Club has donated the trophies and ribbons.

Other winners were:

Ceremony to honor Schwarz

Observance ceremonies in memory of Robert Schwarz will be held at noon on Sunday, April 7 at the public mini park which was dedicated in his memory on September 18, 1963. The park is located on Carmel Valley Road and El Caminito Road.

The ceremony falls on the birthday of Schwarz, who died in September of 1963. The service will be brief and simple as friends of Bob Schwarz feel he would have wished it, according to the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Sylvia Schwarz, his widow, will be present.

Many of the friends who participated in the original opening ceremonies eleven years ago will be present to give short talks on the formation of the public mini park. Speakers will include Lou Gardner and Doyt Early. Early was the original designer of the asymmetrical raised patio and park.

Representing the late Clyde Hitchcock will be Mrs. Beth Hitchcock; representing the Chamber of Commerce will be President Chuck Woodson. Chairman of the program for the day is Chamber of Commerce Treasurer Frank Catalano.

Leo G. Lutes

Leo G. Lutes, of Grass Valley, died last Wednesday following an apparent heart attack at his home. He was 72.

A resident of Carmel Valley from 1924 to 1960, Mr. Lutes worked on many local ranches.

He is survived by his son, Leo Gordon Lutes, of Carmel Valley; his daughter, Alice Wilson of Pacific Grove; and five grandchildren.

There were no funeral services. Following cremation, Mr. Lutes' ashes were scattered at sea.
